

is the new Cornish language project that aims to engage people with Kernewek through social activities.

From supporting existing Yeth an Werins to developing novel and fun activities with Kernewek at the core, the project will work for Cornish speakers and non-speakers, with a range of levels of activity that will cater for all ages and throughout Cornwall.

The project is looking for people who are passionate about Kernewek to get involved. Initially, we are looking to create a small group who can help coordinate and develop the content and direction of the project.

It doesn't matter if you have no Kernewek at all- we can fix that! Support and training is available to all volunteers.

For more information contact Brian Rogers, Project Lead:

 email: prag.na@btinternet.com
 Facebook: Prag na?
 Twitter: @na\_prag

This project is the result of collaboration by Cornish Language organisations under the banner of An Rosweyth

is the new Cornish language project that aims to engage people with Kernewek through social activities.

From supporting existing Yeth an Werins to developing novel and fun activities with Kernewek at the core, the project will work for Cornish speakers and non-speakers, with a range of levels of activity that will cater for all ages and throughout Cornwall.

The project is looking for people who are passionate about Kernewek to get involved. Initially, we are looking to create a small group who can help coordinate and develop the content and direction of the project.

It doesn't matter if you have no Kernewek at all- we can fix that! Support and training is available to all volunteers.

For more information contact Brian Rogers, Project Lead:

 email: prag.na@btinternet.com
 Facebook: Prag na?
 Twitter: @na\_prag

This project is the result of collaboration by Cornish Language organisations under the banner of An Rosweyth